

PROTECTING YOUR ACCOUNTS IN THE EVENT THAT YOUR BANK FAILS

The Fonds de Garantie des Dépôts et de Résolution (FGDR) was created by the law of 25 June 1999 to compensate you in the event that your bank or investment firm is declared as having failed and your assets have become unavailable:

- › the deposit guarantee scheme covers amounts deposited in current accounts or savings accounts;
- › the investor compensation scheme covers securities and other financial instruments.

The FGDR, whose mission is to serve the public interest, protects customers in the event that their institution fails. By protecting customers' assets, it helps to maintain confidence in the banking system and ensure its stability.

All banks and investment firms authorised in France are required to contribute to the FGDR.

At the end of 2016, 530 institutions were members of the FGDR and contributed for at least one of the guarantees. The FGDR also covers customers of branches in a country of the European Economic Area⁽¹⁾.

The FGDR works with its European counterparts to cover customers of French branches of institutions whose head office is located in a country of the EEA.

The FGDR can also intervene on a bank crisis Resolution basis, before a failure occurs, to prevent an interruption in services and compensation.

2/ COMPENSATION UNDER THE DEPOSIT GUARANTEE SCHEME

The FGDR's deposit guarantee scheme covers all depositors, including natural persons, whether minors or adults, under guardianship or represented by a third party, companies (limited companies (SA), limited liability companies (SARL), one-person limited liability companies (EURL), etc.), individual business owners, associations and other professional groups, etc. in an amount up to €100,000 per depositor, per institution. Compensation is paid within 7 business days, except in special cases.

You have several accounts at the same bank:

All deposits are added up and compensated up to a maximum of €100,000. All amounts deposited in savings accounts guaranteed by the French government are also added up and compensated in full up to a maximum of €100,000. Only credit balances are used to calculate the compensation except for legal or contractual set-off.

You have accounts at several banks:

The FGDR's guarantee applies separately to each bank.

You have a joint account:

It is shared equally by each joint holder, unless otherwise specified in the agreement. Each holder combines his/her share with his/her other deposit and savings accounts.

You keep your personal assets separate from your business assets (one-person limited liability company (EURL) or limited liability individual business owner (EIRL)):

You are compensated separately for your personal accounts and your business accounts.

You are a member of an undivided co-ownership

The undivided co-ownership receives its own compensation, which is separate from that of its members.

You have "temporary high deposits", i.e. amounts that were received less than three months prior to the failure and which come from:

- 1/ the sale of residential property belonging to you;
- 2/ a lump-sum payment of compensation for harm sustained by you;
- 3/ a lump-sum payment of a retirement benefit, an estate, a bequest or a donation;
- 4/ a compensatory allowance or a settlement or contractual indemnity following the termination of an employment contract.

The €100,000 coverage level is increased by an additional €500,000 for each event within the above categories, except for bodily injury for which there is no coverage limit.

To exercise your right, you will need to write to the FGDR within two months of receiving your initial compensation and provide the necessary supporting documents.

3/ THE FGDR INVESTOR COMPENSATION SCHEME

The FGDR's investor compensation scheme covers all securities and financial instruments of investors (individuals, whether minors or adults, companies, business owners, associations and other professional groups, etc.):

- › stocks, bonds, etc. held directly or in a PEA;
- › units or shares of investment funds (open-end investment companies-SICAV, mutual funds-FCP, savings plans, etc...);
- › certificates of deposit, negotiable debt instruments.

The guarantee applies in an amount up to €70,000 per customer, per institution. Compensation is paid within 3 months, except in special cases.

Note: the investor compensation scheme is initiated only when two conditions are met:

- 1/ your securities have disappeared from your accounts;
- 2/ the institution at which your account is held is in suspension of payments and cannot return or reimburse the securities.

The cash associated with securities accounts is also compensated:

- › in an amount up to €70,000 if your securities account is held by an investment firm and if your cash account associated to securities is denominated in euros or in another currency of the EEA;
- › or is included in the amounts covered by the deposit guarantee scheme, up to €100,000, if your securities account is held by a bank.

4/ COMPENSATION PROCEDURE (DEPOSIT GUARANTEE SCHEME AND INVESTOR COMPENSATION SCHEME):

Step 1

Initiation at the request of the Autorité de Contrôle (the French Prudential Supervision Authority - ACPR)

The FGDR intervenes when a bank or investment firm is no longer able to return the deposits collected or the securities entrusted to it. On the unavailability date, the institution is declared as having failed and customers lose access to their accounts. Compensation by the FGDR is initiated automatically.

Customers do not need to take any action other than opening an account at another institution if they do not already have one.

Step 2

Preparation of compensation

The institution prepares the customer account statements as of the unavailability date and sends customers a final account statement. It sends this information to the FGDR, which uses it to determine the compensation amount.

During this time, the FGDR informs customers of the status of the procedure on its website and answers questions via its call centre.

Step 3

Payment to customers

- The FGDR is opening a "Secure Compensation Area" on its website to issue compensation to each customer:
 - › either by bank transfer after the customer has entered new bank details;
 - › or by cheque with notice of receipt.
- The FGDR sends each customer a compensation letter with notice of receipt containing:
 - › information about the customer's accounts;
 - › a list of covered accounts and excluded accounts;
 - › the compensation calculation;
 - › the non-compensated amounts;
 - › the compensation cheque, if applicable; and
 - › a "Compensation by the FGDR" information notice.

This period may be extended only in cases where additional information or special processing is requested.

After receiving his/her initial compensation, the customer has two months to send the FGDR a request for additional compensation, along with supporting documents, for "temporary high deposits" or to dispute his/her compensation.

- The FGDR issues the compensation within a maximum period of:
 - › 7 business days for the deposit guarantee scheme;
 - › 3 months for the investor compensation scheme.

Step 4

End of compensation

The FGDR handles special cases, additional compensation and any claims until they are completed.

5/ THE GUARANTEE OF PERFORMANCE BONDS SCHEME

The FGDR'S performance bonds scheme covers performance bonds that a bank or financial institution must issue to certain regulated professions (real estate agents or developers, travel agents, etc.) to guarantee the proper completion of their customers' projects. If the bank or financial institution fails, the FGDR takes over and honours the performance bond until the project is completed.

If the professional defaults vis-à-vis his/her customer, the FGDR compensates the customer.

The compensation is capped at 90% of the harm sustained by the customer, with a deductible amount of €3,000.
